Landor, the poet, says "We are what suns, and winds, and waters make us;" but suns will scorch, winds will roughen, and waters will not remove the injurious effects of the other two upon the lovely complexion of the fairer sex. For ages chemists have tried to distill an elixir of beauty but they have failed, and it was left to modern times to find a cosmetic which would remove every speck and blemish, and leave a soft and pearly loveliness upon the roughest skin. Gourand's Oriental cream does this, and while so perfectly harmless that spring water is not more so, it has a magic influence upon the complexion which cannot be over estimated or believed until realized.
